Task   Completed

Edit Items in a Category

Look at every single item. You can consider small items, such as each type of beads as one item.

What is a reasonable number of items to have? (How many paper cutters, quilting hoops, etc. do you really need?)

Is the item broken, torn, stained or unusable?

What is the likelihood you'll use the item in the next year?

If you get rid of the item and decide you need it again in the future, how easy is it to replace?

If you get rid of the item and decide you need it again in the future, how expensive is it to replace?

How much do you enjoy the item versus how much will someone else enjoy it?

Does the item "spark joy"? Do you honestly see yourself using it in the near future? Honestly.

Consider Your Space

How much can you store in the space you have?

How do you want the craft space to function? Mostly storage or storage and work space?

How do you envision the space looking? Extensive supply storage? Open working and visual space?

Consider the Budget

Do you have the budget to DIY or purchase storage for all the craft items?

If you sold items could you raise money for the craft space you'd really like?

Do you want to pay to store all of these items?

Emotional Decisions

Can you take a photo and then let the item go?

Can you keep a piece or part of it?

Are you really honoring the item or is it stuffed away somewhere?
